The Lanberg patch cable is designed for optimal network performance with its UTP technology. Featuring RJ-45 connectors on both ends, this cable offers a reliable connection for various network setups. The cable is built with Copper-Clad Aluminium (CCA) conductors and HDPE conductor insulation, ensuring durability and signal integrity.

With a tested frequency of up to 100 MHz and compliance to ANSI/TIA/EIA 568-B standards, this CAT 5e cable delivers solid performance for everyday networking tasks. The molded, snagless design prevents cable snags during installation and contributes to its longevity, making it an ideal choice for both home and professional use.
