The Lanberg patch cable is designed to provide reliable connectivity in demanding networking environments. With its S/FTP technology and aluminum foil shield combined with an aluminum braid, this cable minimizes electromagnetic interference for optimal performance at frequencies up to 500 MHz. The Low Smoke Zero Halogen (LSZH) jacket material ensures safety in case of fire, emitting minimal toxic smoke, making it ideal for various installations.

Equipped with RJ-45 male connectors on both ends, this CAT 6a cable is suitable for diverse network applications. Its snagless design prevents damage to connectors when plugging and unplugging, while the stranded construction and pure copper conductors enhance flexibility and performance. Compliant with several international standards, this cable ensures consistent connections in any network setup.
