The Lanberg CAT 6a patch cable is designed for network performance, leveraging S/FTP technology for shielding against interference. This cable supports speeds of up to 10 Gbps, making it suitable for high-demand applications. Constructed with pure bare copper conductors and compliant with several international standards, this product offers reliable connectivity and durability.

Featuring a snagless design that prevents damage during installation, the cable is crafted with Low Smoke Zero Halogen (LSZH) jacket material for safety in enclosed spaces. With a tested frequency of up to 500 MHz, the Lanberg patch cable is a robust solution for any networking environment, combining performance with compliance to standards.
