The InLine® DisplayPort 1.4 adapter with DisplayPort plug to Mini DisplayPort socket is the ideal solution for connecting modern hardware to devices with a Mini DisplayPort interface, such as older monitors, Apple displays or certain notebooks. The adapter enables a direct, pure signal connection and is a practical addition, especially in mixed system landscapes.
With support for resolutions up to 8K UHD, the adapter is suitable for demanding image applications in the professional sector. The gold-plated contacts ensure stable signal transmission and are resistant to corrosion – a decisive advantage for frequent use or in mobile environments.
Thanks to its compact design, the adapter is not only ideal for stationary use, but also an excellent choice for on the go – for example, for field service, training or at trade fairs. Whether for temporary installations or daily use, the adapter is a useful tool for anyone who needs maximum flexibility in video connections.
