Constructed from durable aluminum alloy, this black junction box is designed to offer a secure and protective housing for electrical connections. It is compatible with specific camera models, ensuring a seamless fit and integration for outdoor installations. The unit measures 100 mm in diameter and 120 mm in height, providing ample space for cable management and connection setups.

The weatherproof design of the junction box ensures it can withstand harsh environmental conditions, including rain and dust, thereby enhancing the longevity and performance of the housed equipment. Its black finish not only adds to the aesthetic appeal but also aids in blending with various exterior surfaces for a more discreet installation.

The box includes necessary mounting hardware, which facilitates easy and secure installation on a variety of surfaces. It is engineered to support efficient cable arrangement and maintenance, making it a valuable addition to any security system setup that requires robust protection for its electrical components.
