The smart power strip is the perfect equipment for a home cinema because you can make your home entertainment equipment WLAN-compatible later and thus control it conveniently in one place separately or together via an app. Tablets and mobile phones can also use the USB ports.

Smart Home without a gateway

Our WLAN socket strip works without any gateway (hub): you don't need an additional device, and you save on extra costs since the socket strip establishes a direct WiFi connection with the router

Individually programmable

The right control for every device: each individual socket on the smart socket strip can be individually controlled and programmed via the app

USB slots

Intelligent socket strip with a USB upgrade: directly charge smartphones, tablets and other devices or provide USB devices such as Fire TV with power at the USB slots

Can be extended at will with other Smart Home products

Step by step to the Smart Home: with the Hama Smart Home app, you can expand and network your smart home with any number of Hama Smart Home products

Easy operation from anywhere via the app

Whether it be the sofa or the sun lounger: with the Hama Smart Home app, you can control your WiFi socket strip from anywhere and you have control over all the devices connected to it at all times

Convenient voice control

Whether it be Amazon Alexa or Google Assistant: conveniently control the devices that are connected to the Smart Home socket strip with spoken commands
