The Lanberg bulk cable is designed for reliable data transmission in various environments. With a technology based on UTP and a length indication feature, it ensures proper installation and monitoring of lengths. Constructed with copper conductors and HDPE conductor insulation, this CAT 5e cable is capable of handling frequencies up to 100 MHz, making it suitable for a range of applications. This solid and outdoor-rated cable features a rugged polyurethane jacket that provides durability in harsh weather conditions. Operating in temperature ranges from -20°C to 70°C, it remains functional across a wide span of environments. Both EN 13501-6 and EN50575:2014+A1:2016 compliant, this bulk cable meets several industry standards for safety and performance.
