The InLine® DisplayPort to HDMI Adapter enables the reliable connection of devices with DisplayPort output – such as PCs, notebooks or docking stations – to HDMI-compatible display devices. IT service providers, system houses and technicians benefit particularly in professional environments from the high compatibility with common standards such as DisplayPort 1.1 and HDMI 1.3b.

The adapter not only transmits high-resolution video signals up to 2160i at 30 Hz, but also audio signals, which greatly simplifies integration into existing multimedia solutions. The compact construction and robust design ensure flexible use both in the workplace and in presentation environments.

Thanks to its driverless plug-and-play functionality, the adapter is ideal for quick use in day-to-day business – whether for setting up new workstations or as part of rollout projects.

Rely on the proven quality of InLine® when it comes to efficient connection technology in professional IT environments.
