those who want the CHERRY classic without the cord the STREAM KEYBOARD WIRELESS is the perfect choice.

The design: comfort & style for the modern office

With the STREAM KEYBOARD WIRELESS, understated minimalism meets a high level of comfort. It combines all the advantages of the familiar STREAM KEYBOARD and extends the range of functions to include 2.4 GHz technology with a 10 m range. Super slim and reduced to the essentials, it is an eye-catcher on the desk and quality is also at the highest level. The difference is made with a stable design using an integrated metal plate, two robust feet and eight rubber pads, all of which make typing a more enjoyable experience.

The heart: CHERRY SX scissor technology

The STREAM family is known for its good typing feel, but what exactly constitutes a good typing feel? We think that precise movement of the scissor mechanism and a defined pressure point are essential. Furthermore, the quality must remain the same over a very long time. Also, the noise level whilst typing must not be disturbing, particularly when several workstations are located in one office as a quiet working environment can increase productivity. It's a good thing, then, that this wireless keyboard from CHERRY is equipped with whisper-quiet keys.

2.4 GHz wireless technology - no more cable tangles

Plug it in and get started – connection of this flat, wireless keyboard is easily established via Plug&Play. AES-128 encryption ensures that data is transmitted in encrypted form using a stable connection, which has a range of up to 10 m.

Familiar handling - making searching a thing of the past

The wireless keyboard with 2.4 GHz wireless technology and AES-128 encryption makes tedious key searching a thing of the past. It has a full-size layout and a number pad, which makes operation immediately familiar. Status LEDs for CAPS LOCK, NUM and SCROLL LOCK are helpful as they are integrated directly into the key, showing which status LED is activated at a glance. This feature is more commonly found on products at higher price points. A pending battery change is also clearly indicated in good time by the LEDs flashing. However, the long battery life of 36 months ensures that this is a rare occurrence.

Modern work: sophisticated functions & flexible extras

All frequently used functions are located on practical additional keys on the flat PC keyboard. Among them are six keys for controlling your multimedia player and three additional keys for opening a browser, e-mail and calculator. The lock key is also extremely useful as instead of several steps or a key combination, the user can log out with just one click when leaving their workstation. This is especially important in office applications and could be used several times a day. Additional flexibility comes into play through the use of the CHERRY KEYS software. It only takes a few clicks to turn the cordless keyboard into a keyboard configured to a user's individual wishes.

Together for a good future - sustainability & health

With the CHERRY STREAM KEYBOARD WIRELESS, we have succeeded in doing away with plastic packaging completely and instead switched to sustainable materials. Another positive aspect is that it has been awarded the oldest of all environmental protection labels, the “Blauer Engel” . In addition, the keyboard carries the GS seal “Tested safety”, which is the only legally regulated test mark in Europe, certifying that defined ergonomic and safety standards are met. All these criteria offer guidance when shopping sustainably and when it comes to the health of both you and your employees.
