The Lanberg CAT 6 patch cable provides efficient and reliable network connectivity. With Copper-Clad Aluminium conductors and HDPE conductor insulation, this cable ensures optimal performance with minimal interference. The molded, snagless, and stranded design contributes to durability and ease of use in various settings.

Ideal for high-speed data transmission, this cable can handle frequencies of up to 250 MHz, making it suitable for various networking tasks. The PVC jacket adds an extra layer of protection, enhancing longevity and reliability. The RJ-45 connectors on both ends are male, ensuring a secure connection to devices.
