It's time to supercharge your home network with the Generation 6 wireless network. hAP ax² has everything you might need in a primary home access point - and more! Forget endless reviews and comparisons - this is the perfect device for 99% of homes. Wireless signal is now stronger than ever. Here are the two main ingredients of hAP ax's success: a state-of-the-art dual-band, dual-chain 4-4.5 dBi radio, and the 802.11ax standard with Wave2 support. Let's compare it to the previous generation: depending on your overall setup, that means up to 40% higher speed in the 5 GHz and up to 90% higher speed in the 2.4 GHz spectrum! The modern quad-core CPU running at 864 MHz combined with a solid GB of RAM packs a hefty punch when it comes to heavy operations like complex firewall rules, IPsec hardware encryption, using more threads or experimenting with the most advanced RouterOS features. And with the addition of WPA3 advanced encryption support, you're safer than ever before. Like the previous models, hAP ax² can be mounted vertically, horizontally, or even on the wall - without sacrificing the strong signal. With so many products and features on the market, even an experienced user can become confused. So it's time for a simple truth for a simple choice: you can't go wrong with a hAP ax² in most homes.
